ACTIVE LEARNING IN THE CLASSROOM

We took a topical issue that had just hit the news headlines and compared and contrasted how the issue was covered in different broadsheet and tabloid newspapers, as well as on the television news and on the internet. We analysed the importance the topic was given in each – how many minutes or column inches were allocated to it in each medium and what kinds of words were used to describe the story. Once we had this information, we each had to think of three explanations for the differences between the media types. Broadly, these were: types of reader/viewer; political bias of the publication; available images and information. It has made me think differently when I watch the news on television!
